Moral Policy

As a Christian individual (and business) I choose to only work on and host sites that will not violate my moral conscience. There is no requirement that my clients must be Christians, and their websites do not have to promote a Christian cause, but every website (content, links, information, etc . . .) I work on must be in accordance with the values and teachings of Scripture. That means I cannot work on websites that promote lifestyles, behaviors or products that would be contrary to Scripture. This is by no means a complete list, but I don't work on websites that promote (or the products, links, etc . . . on the site would promote) immorality, drugs, alcohol, pornography or any other "adult" content.
